

It has been wonderful to be able to sit down to a family dinner and not get interrupted by a phone call from some company selling a product or service that I have never heard of before and have not interest in ever using their product or service. I am at the point in my life that if I need a service or product, I know how to find that service, company or product without being persuaded to purchase it from a telephone solicitor.